I track the points you have, and it appears on each invoice. It is your choice when you want to redeem your points. Orders placed during the months of March, June, September, and December (the month when a new pricelist appears) earn an additional 10% in points. Fo r example, a $50 order would earn 50 points. During one of those four months, a $50 order would earn 55 points instead.

Albuquerque or bust!

I will be away the first two weeks in August. I will be at the annual convention of the Precancel Stamp Society and the Perfins Club in Albuquerque, NM.

Î am driving there with my stock. It is a 2-day drive to get there, 6 days at the convention, and two days to return home. I will not be getting my mail, obviously. I will be checking email as much as possible. Any orders received will be delayed until my return. I will be leaving on August 2 and returning on August 11.

Thanks for your understanding.

No GASS this year

I participated in GASS 2024 in Hartford, CT and did well. I was hoping to do GASS again this year in Chicago. However, I cannot make it. My daughter is moving to college that week. Either I move her into college, or I find a divorce attorney. Just kidding!

I will no sooner return from the precancel convention, and I will have to move Haylee into college. I may do GASS next year if the planning works out.

Most difficult quarter ever

March through May is probably the most difficult quarter I have ever had.

As I mentioned in my last price list, I developed the flu which knocked me down for two weeks. That put me incredibly far behind.

As I was trying to catch up and get the spring price list in the mail, my computer died. I bought a new computer. I recovered most of the data from my old computer. There were a few things that I lost that were in my Microsoft Outlook program. My new computer is working well. I have a few things that I need to get working on it yet such as my label printer.

The Pittsburgh area experienced a round of storms in April. They say it was not a tornado. However, I lost 10 large trees on my property. My neighbor lost 25 trees. Damage was widespread in Murrysville and surrounding area. Thankfully, my house was undamaged. and no one was hurt during the storm. After the storm, I was using a chain saw to try and cut up a large tree that had fallen across my driveway. In doing so, I slipped and the ring finger on my left hand went down across the chain. That was painful. I had a deep cut on my finger that became infected. As this price list is going out, my finger is still not fully healed. At least I did not self-amputate my finger. It was a bad cut but could have been worse.

The worst part of the storm is that it knocked out power to my house for several days. I had no computer, no internet, no phone ... nothing. Just after the storm, there were over a million customers in the Pittsburgh region with no power. Trees were down everywhere. Likewise, power lines were down too. Power companies called in over 600 crews from other companies to come in and help restore power. When I got power restored several days later, I had over 1500 emails. Most of them were junk mail. It takes time to sift through that many. Some I have to check because I cannot tell from the subject alone if it is spam or if it is a real email.

My largest challenge is with my full-time job in IT for First National Bank of Pennsylvania.

Since the beginning of January, we are now in the office 5 days a week. My office is in Pittsburgh. I now spend 10-15 hours per week commuting into work that I did not have to do previously. That is a significant chunk of time for me.

With the change to being in the office again (after several years working from home due to Covid and my heart surgery), we also lost staff. Several people have left FNB. We have not been able to hire replacement employees. We lost about 20% of our people in IT so far. The work has not gone away though. That means that the people left (including me) have more responsibilities. The amount of work that has come my way is difficult. I manage three areas for the bank. One of those areas is severely understaffed with no budget to fill the positions needed. The reaction from the head of IT is, "The team will have to find a way to get it done."

I am working on trying to change positions to another company. I cannot keep up this pace with FNB much longer. By the end of the day, I am mentally fatigued with all the things going on which translates into being physically fatigued as well. I need to find a position that is less stressful and less demanding of my time. My current work/life balance is severely out of alignment.

I think that once I address the situation with my full-time job and find another position at another company, everything else will fall in line. I apologize for the delays you have been experiencing. I am trying to fix this soon.

Discount postage

The market for discount postage is not strong. Prices continue to decline. There are several reasons why.

The average person does not want to lick the gum on stamps anymore. They are so accustomed to self-adhesive forever stamps, they have no desire to lick stamps.

People do not send mail like they used to. Not counting Christmas cards, the average person mails one or two pieces of first-class mail per month. If you are only mailing a handful of first-class letters per year, paying full price for stamps from the post office or buying discount postage is not life altering money. People are not actively seeking discount postage to save a few dollars per year on a handful of letters. Not counting stamp collectors, a few people do, but not many.

Counterfeit stamps are a big factor in the decline of discount postage. You can easily find counterfeit stamps online for prices usually between 25-50% of face value. Why pay 50% or more for older stamps that you have to lick when you can buy the counterfeits for 50% of face value or less?

Yes, people should not be buying counterfeit stamps. However, it happens ... a lot! There is no downside since the USPS seems powerless to detect counterfeit stamps and curb their use.

If the supply of counterfeit stamps ever dries up, there will be an increase in demand for discount postage again. For now, prices remain soft though.

Privatizing the USPS

There has been a lot of talk lately about privatizing the USPS. The rumor mill was swirling that Postmaster General DeJoy left the USPS because of a disagreement with President Trump over privatizing the USPS. That was the rumor. I don't believe there is any truth to it.

I think privatizing the USPS is unlikely. Looking at it as a businessperson, I do not see many positives in the deal. Suppose you had vast wealth, and you were thinking about "buying" the USPS from the government and taking it over. Would you do it?

First class mail volume has been declining for years. It is never coming back. We have not hit the bottom yet. The Covid pandemic accelerated the move to electronic communication to avoid spread of the disease through contaminated mail. There will always be some level of first-class mail. Some people will always mail birthday and Christmas cards. A few people still write letters.

The USPS delivered about 92 billion pieces of first-class mail in 2008. Seventeen years later, that figure has been cut in half. In 2023, the USPE delivered about 46 billion pieces of first-class mail. Where is the bottom? I do not know. I expect that it will probably be a few billion pieces of mail within the next ten years. Maybe that will be the bottom?

The USPS makes money (obviously, not enough) from delivering packages. However, they have stiff competition from UPS and FedEx over package delivery. Do you want to buy a business where well-established and sophisticated competitors are working every day to take more of your business away?

The public is unhappy using the USPS. You do not have to look far to find newspaper articles or other sources of information about people protesting against the USPS. Delivery times are too long. They lose mail. And so forth. People use the USPS because they have to - not because they want to. The USPS has a monopoly over handling first-class mail. If people could not use the USPS, many would turn elsewhere.

You have a customer base that largely does not like you. If you bought the USPS, how would you quickly turn that around? I am not sure you can.

Delivering the mail is a sophisticated process. There is a lot of automation involved. You cannot buy a few trucks, hire a few workers, and buy a few cancelling machines and say that you are ready to take over the USPS. It is way more complex than that.

Good or bad, you would have to use the current infrastructure at the start. You may argue that the infrastructure is part of the problem. If so, then how do you quickly turn it around into an infrastructure that works? Revamping the mail processing centers, restructuring contracts with vendors, and so forth are all things that will take months, if not years, to turn around.

If you think the postal employees are the problem, that too is going to be difficult to replace. You may have to deal with the postal union contracts. You may be the new owner. However, do you think the postal unions are going to want to negotiate new contracts with you that are a substantial pay cut for their workers? They may want a raise, not a pay cut.

You may want to replace postal workers. You cannot do that on the first day. They know too much. You cannot go out and hire all new employees and turn them lose in the post office. They are not going to know delivery routes or how mail gets from point A to point B. Again, it would take many months, if not years, to transition from the current USPS work force to your own work force, even if there was a way around the postal union contracts.

The one upside is that the postal service has a new fleet of vehicles. Well, almost. There have been delivery delays on the new postal vehicle fleet. If all those vehicles were delivered, you would at least have a modern fleet of vehicles to use.

New Postmaster General

David Steiner succeeds Louis DeJoy as the 76th Postmaster General of the USPS.

One thing that is interesting is that he served on the Board of Directors of FedEx, one of the main competitors of the USPS for package delivery.

Will Mr. Steiner accomplish that DeJoy and others failed to do? Will he improve service while making the USPS profitable again? I wish him well, but I doubt that he is going to be any different.

I had high expectations of DeJoy for two reasons. One, he was an outsider to the USPS. I thought that gave him an advantage of not being burdened by years of "this is the way we do it." His outsider perspective could have been, "Why are you doing that? Here is how we make that better." Second, he was the CEO of a logistics and trucking company. I thought his background in employing logistics to grow the trucking company would help with the USPS.

I mean no disrespect. However, I think things with the USPS got worse. They were still not financially sound. In particular, his Delivering For America plan failed. Service declined even further while postage rates increase two or more times per year.

Like DeJoy, Steinger is an outsider to the USPS. Like DeJoy, Steiner has a background that is relevant to the USPS main job – delivering the mail. What I have not heard yet is how Steiner is any different than DeJoy. To me, it almost sounds like Steiner is going to be another flavor of DeJoy.

Time will tell if my thoughts are correct or if Steiner really transforms the USPS into providing better service while earning a profit.

They saw the sale

I was at the Wilkinsburg stamp show, Wilkpex. A man and woman came to the show with an album of worldwide stamps. They were in their 60s. It was her father's collection.

It only took me a minute or two to review the album. Like so many other collections I see, it was all common and inexpensive material. It had some value, but not much. I explained the situation to them. They understood. She was focused on just getting the stamps to someone who would enjoy them. She was not looking to make a million dollars and retire.

I offered her $10 for the album and said it was worth $20. She said that was fine and accepted my offer. I handed her a $10 bill.

Meanwhile, Jim (one of the club members) asked me earlier that day if I had a mixed lot of worldwide stamps for $25. He just wanted something small to occupy his time and not spend a lot of money on it. I now had the perfect solution for him.

Jim was nearby and I called him over. I held the album out and said, "It is a million-dollar collection with many rare stamps. However, for you ... just $20!" He paged through the album a few seconds and handed me a $20 bill. He was happy with the album.

What I did not see is that the couple who brought the collection to the show were standing near the front door talking to someone at the club table. They were about ten feet from my table. They saw the whole deal go down.

I heard, "That was quick!" and I looked up. They were standing at the club table. They were both laughing and pointing at me. I told her it was worth $20 and she just saw me sell it for $20. They were laughing that I sold it so quickly.

A million-dollar collection

Another seller came into the Wilkpex show. She had a small box of material. There was not much there. I explained the situation and offered her $100 for what she had. She smiled and accepted my offer. She too just wanted to get the stamps to someone who would appreciate them.

She was curious and she was looking at some of the other stamps that I had at my table. I yelled over to Danielle who was sitting at the club table inside the front door. I said, "Danielle! I just bought this collection with rare and valuable stamps. How about $10,000?" Danielle yelled back, "$9900 and not a penny more." I said, "Sold!"

The lady looked up from my table and she was laughing. She knew we were joking.

Meanwhile, Fred, another dealer across the aisle from me said, "Hey Scott. What did you just buy?" I said, "It is a valuable collection that you cannot live without, Fred. You REALLY need to buy these stamps for $10,000. It is the deal of a lifetime."

The lady looked up at me and said, "You are going to have more fun just talking about this collection than in selling it." She was right. She knew we were just kidding around. I think it made her happy that someone was joking around about her father's accumulation of stamps.

He is an idiot

Sometimes I run into a seller who has done their research on the internet. They go to eBay or they go to valuablestamps.com and look up their stamps. This green Franklin is $80,000, that red Washington is $125.000, and so forth. Of course, they do not check perforation hole sizes, watermarks, or other important characteristics. They just know that they hit the lottery.

I go through the collection and find stamps that are misidentified, stamps that are damaged, and so forth. I arrive at a value that is miniscule to the $3.9 million they had in mind.

Some of the sellers are very adamant that they have a million-dollar collection with rare stamps. They are not going to sell them to me for pennies on the dollar. I am sure some of those sellers go home thinking that I am a complete idiot for not identifying their stamps as the rare and valuable varieties. Some sellers probably think that I am a scam artist trying to steal their collections for a fraction of the real value.

I wonder what those sellers think when they encounter other dealers who evaluate the collection the same way I do and come up with a figure that is in the ballpark of what I offer. Are all stamp dealers ignorant of how to correctly identify the rare stamps? Are all dealers trying to steal the collection for pennies on the dollar. Those collections may sit for a long time. Sometimes the seller may die without ever having sold their collection.

I may be an idiot or scam artist. So are a long list of other dealers.

New postage rates

The cost to mail a first-class letter jumps 5 cents to 78 cents starting July 13, 2025. Also, the cost for each additional ounce goes from 28 to 29 cents. International letters increase from $1.65 to $1.70.

Shipping fees

Many years ago, I eliminated shipping fees for all orders except those under $50. For smaller orders like that, I charge a $1 postage fee. There is not a lot of profit in small orders, sometimes only $5 or $10. The $1 fee I charge (mostly) covers my mailing cost.

I have not made a firm decision on this yet, but it is something I am contemplating on doing.

Larger and more valuable orders are usually sent Priority Mail. I use discount postage, so my actual cost to send Priority Mail is much less. Customers also appreciate that their orders arrive so quickly.

What some customers do not realize is that flats (large envelopes) are not treated the same as first-class mail. I mail a lot of flats because collectors buy large-size souvenir sheets (e.g. Scott #1686-89) or full panes of stamps. Those do not fit in a standard #10 envelope.

The USPS focuses on delivering Express and Priority mail first. Then first-class mail. And then other mail. Flats are third on the priority list. Meaning, if the post office has time to process the flat, they do. If they are busy with other classes of mail, flats sit and wait. When the USPS calculates the percentage of on-time delivery statistics, flats are not included. It is calculated on Express, Priority, and first-class (letter) mail pieces only.

When I mail a flat to a customer, sometimes it arrives in a few days. Sometimes it can take four to six weeks to arrive. I have no way of knowing when it will arrive.

In the past, when an order is lost, I replace it at my cost. These are smaller orders. The more valuable orders are sent Priority Mail. I would sometimes lose one or two orders per year. It was not a lot, but it does cut into the profit.

Over the last 2-3 years though, the number of orders that are not delivered has gone up significantly When you start losing multiple $20, $50, and $100 orders, it adds up fast and impacts profitability. I cannot operate effectively if the USPS keeps delaying delivery or losing my mail. These are customers that I have done business with many times. There is no funny business going on with them. I know they are not trying to scam me by pretending that their order did not arrive.

On orders of $200 or more, postage will be free. On orders under $200, customers will have an option. For an optional fee of $5, your order will be sent certified mail which means that it has tracking and should be handled more promptly. If your order is lost, then I will replace it at my cost, as I have done in the past. If you decide to not include the $5 fee, then your order will be shipped via first-class mail without tracking. If the order is lost, I will NOT replace it.

This is not meant to discourage small orders. I do get some orders as small as $5 or $10. I am trying to figure out how to get orders to the customers on a timely basis and without loss.

One of my dealer colleagues has also had many losses. Every order he ships now goes Priority Mail, no exceptions. He makes customers pay the $10.10 postage. Some customers that place smaller orders complain about the cost. He simply tells them, "Sorry, the USPS is losing too much of my mail."

I am not going to that extreme. However, I feel that I must do something soon to get this under control.

Linn's Stamp News

I have no insider information on what is going on at Amos Media, parent company of Linn's Stamp News and the Scott catalogs. All this information is public knowledge. All I am doing is stating my opinion.

First of all, I hope Linn's Stamp News continues. Like many of you, I have read it for years. As the years roll on, I find that the amount of information in Linn's is decreasing.

This isn't a nostalgia thing. Yes, I remember the days when Linn's Stamp News was printed like a newspaper, and it was 80 pages long and filled with dozens (hundreds?) of dealer ads. Would I like to go back to those days? Sure. Is it going to happen? Never.

I have been contacted several times by Linn's to inform me that my ad did not run. It was overlooked. I forget which issue it was, however, there was one issue in 2025 that had zero display ads. That is correct – zero! Someone forgot to include the dealer ads when they laid out the magazine that week. How do you do that?

I am one of only a handful of dealers who still advertise in Linn's. The number of display ads per issue is usually less than ten. The amount of classified ads has decreased too. Classified ads used to span several pages. Classified ads today do not fill two full pages.

Content has dropped. Some of that could be attributed to the difficulty in getting people to write about stamps. An issue of Linn's Stamp News is now barely 20 pages in magazine format. It is a fraction of the size it was many years ago when it was 80-pages in newspaper format.

Lloyd de Vries recently wrote on the Virtual Stamp Club website that he is taking a break from writing his monthly column on First Day Covers for Linn's because he has not been paid for 12 months. No one else has spoken out publicly. However, if Lloyd has not been paid, I suspect that other authors are also not getting paid. I heard that another regular contributor to Linn's has also not been paid and he too has stopped writing for Linn's. That writer is not mentioned by name in a public forum. I will not use his name here.

Last fall, Amos Press had a "dispute with the printer" that caused several print issues of Scott Stamp Monthly magazine to go missing. Rather than print and mail the issues, they just extended the subscriptions by the number of missed issues. In my opinion, this was not a dispute with the printer. The printer did not get paid for several invoices and they were not going to print more until they were made whole again by Amos Media.

If you want a set of Scott catalogs, you can only get them by preordering them. They are not printing any extras. Meaning they are not going to spend extra money to print extra copies to fill orders from the occasional customer that comes along and wants a copy. Order now or go without.

My 2025 Scott US Specialized catalog did not arrive until March. It was supposed to be out in October 2024. I was almost ready to write to Amos Media and tell them to skip sending me the 2025 copy. Just send me the 2026 copy which will be out in another six months, assuming it is on time and not delayed again like last year.

I do not pretend to know what the problems are at Amos Media. All outward signs though are that they are struggling financially with their philatelic products.

I hope they turn things around. I hope that Linn's Stamp News and the Scott catalogs keep going. I would not be surprised though if at some point in time in the near future, we hear that the business has been sold to someone else or that they are declaring bankruptcy and ceasing operations. The alternative is that there is a major reorganization where some people are let go and the remaining few will reduce their costs. The few left behind will be responsible for carrying out publishing Linn's and getting the catalogs done.

You cannot turn a blind eye to all the information that is out there in plain sight. Lloyd has not been paid for his columns. Issues are not being printed on time. Catalogs are not being printed and delivered on time. Added together, it spells trouble for Amos Media.

Stay tuned. I feel that there is more to come. I hope this ends on a positive note though.

American Stamp Collector and Dealer

I have praised this magazine over the years. I do it because I believe in the magazine and not because I am the President of the ASDA. The ASDA publishes this magazine 11 times per year. The November and December months are combined into a single edition.

You can get a one-year subscription to a printed copy for $26.95. Teo years is $47.95. Online-only editions are also available for $12.95 (1 year) and $19.95 (2 years).

I feel that it is a great magazine that is well worth the money. The content is not a repeat of information that you find elsewhere in the philatelic press.

If you would like to subscribe, you can go to https://www.americanstampdealer.com/MagazineSubscription.aspx and order it online. If you need ordering information, email me or send me a #10 envelope. We would love to have you on board as a subscriber.

Catalog accuracy

In the Scott US Specialized Catalog, some of the sets of stamps have a total at the bottom so that you do not have to add them all. As a dealer, this is very helpful to me. I do not have to take the time to add up the values individually. I can just refer to the price for the full set.

I accidentally stumbled upon something in the 2025 catalog. If you look at Scott #300-313, the total for the set is $2412. That figure is wrong. The correct figure should be $4812. It looks like they added the price of #300 ($12) and #313 ($2400) together and forgot the rest of the stamps in the set.

I have always been a fan of the Scott catalogs. I understand how difficult it is keeping them updated. However, an error like this could have serious consequences.

If I am evaluating a collection and the owner has a full set of #300-313, I may determine that the centering is a little off and I would pay 50% of catalog for the set. If I did not catch the error, I would pay the seller $1206 and not $2406. That is quite a difference, almost 50%.

Likewise, if I list a VF, hinged set, I may list it for $2400 because that is what the catalog says. I shorted myself $2400. Ouch!

The catalog is not perfect. However, the accuracy of the numbers must be spot on. This was a significant error in the pricing of the #300-313 set. I did not check any other sets to see if they were off too. I suspect this may not be the only group listing that is in error.

Alphabet soup

I have mentioned this in the past. It is worth repeating it again. I wish the Scott catalog editors would bring some consistency to the listings. In my opinion, it is a mess. It creates confusion among collectors and dealers.

Let me give you two specific examples. There are many more that I could choose.

Scott #3647 and #3647A are the $3.85 Jefferson Memorial stamp. The #3647 is dated 2002 and die cut 11.25. Scott #3647A is dated 2003 and die cut 11 x 10.75. There are two differences between these Scott listings: the date in the stamp design and the gauge of the die cuts. It is very straight forward.

On the same page of the 2025 Scott US Specialized catalog is Scott #3642 to 3645. This is the antique toys booklet pane issue. For 3642 to 3645, they are die cut 11 and dated 2022. There is an "a" listing for 3642, 3643, and 3644. The "a" listing is for a 2003 year date and a slightly different die cut of 11 x 11.25.

You think 3645 would have an "a" for the different date and die cut too. Nope! The "a" listing for 3645 is for the setenant block of four. If you want the 2003 year date of 3645, you need 3645f. Of course, 3645g is the block of four for 3642a, 3643a, 3644a, and 3645f with the 2003 year date on all 4 stamps.

There are two points to make here.

First, why is #3647A treated differently than the 3642g copies? They both differ by the year date in the stamp design and a minor change in the gauge of the die cuts. The #3647A gets a major letter, "A". The 3642-3645 copies get a minor listing with an "a" or "f".

Second, with the listing of 3642-3645, it is a mess. For example, why not list all of the 2003 year date copies with an "f"? Then they are all consistent. Depending on the Scott number, sometimes "a" is the 2003 year date. Sometimes "a" is the block of four.

Let me give you one more example that will make your head spin.

Scott #3626-3629 is the non-denominated version of the antique toys booklet pane. The date on the stamps is 2002. It is very straight forward. So far, so good.

Then we have #3629F which is the 37¢ water activated gum Flag stamp. For 3629F, there is also a #3629Fg which is an imperf pair.

Why not list #3629Fa as the imperf pair? What happened to "a" through "f" for 3629F?

The answer is, of course, 3626-3629 has "a" through "e" varieties for various combinations of the antique toys booklet pane sizes. The "F" was used for #3629F, the major variety of the Flag stamp. They used "g" for the imperf pair because "a" through "e" were used for the antique toy booklet stamps. They are two separate issues! You are jumping letters across two stamp issues.

There is no consistency between using major and minor varieties.

With the minor letters, it is all over the map. Sometimes an "a" is an imperf pair of a commemorative stamp. The "a" is often the block/strip for a setenant issue. Sometimes the "a" is for a full booklet pane of (say) 20 stamps for a single design booklet stamp issue. Unless you look in the catalog (or know it by memory), you do not know what an "a" minor variety refers to.

It would probably be a major upheaval, however, it would be great if the Scott catalog editors would go through the entire catalog and provide some consistency in the use of the minor letters.

You know that every catalog number that begins with "C" is an airmail stamp. Can we apply the same consistency to the minor letters? Maybe "I" is the imperf variety of any stamp issues. "ib" can be the imperf between variety. The "a" will always be the block or strip on any setenant issue. Maybe "fp" is the full booklet pane. And so on.

Consistent use of minor letters would bring a lot of understanding to the catalog listings.

Classic catalog

Some collectors buy a new set of Scott catalogs every year.

If you are interested in getting the latest Scott numbers for new issues, I suggest a subscription to Scott Stamp Monthly as an alternative. They list all of the newly assigned catalog numbers in that magazine.

If you are interested in price changes, there is another alternative too.

Some collectors buy a set of catalogs every year because they want to track that the catalog value of their collection advanced from $38,265.15 last year to $39,847.65 this year. To me, it seems foolish to spend several hundred dollars per year for a new set of catalogs to track a few hundred (or a few thousand) dollars of change in the catalog listings for your collection. The increase in the value of your collection just got wiped out by the money you spent on the annual set of catalogs.

There is a smart choice instead that I feel will accomplish the same thing at a fraction of the price.

You can buy the Scott Classic catalog which lists all stamp issues from 1840 to 1940. I contend that the majority of catalog value changes are in the early material. A $25 value item advances to $35 and so forth. Major changes in catalog value in post-1940 material are few and far between. It happens, but it is the exception, not the norm.

My suggestion is to buy a Classic catalog every year or every few years. That will keep up with the most important price changes. Then buy a set of all Scott catalogs every (say) five or ten years depending on your needs and interests.

This is a more prudent use of your money while allowing you to still stay on top of the most recent market conditions as reflected in the catalogs.

Free stuff

When I am at a show, sometimes I set out something that is free or priced very low. It is something that does not have a lot of value, but someone may be able to use it.

For example, I sometimes set out free acetate mounts. If they come out of the USPS commemorative mint sets, there are larger sizes that collectors may need. It is a variety, and you take what you get. Sometimes it is free. Sometimes I'll slap $5 on there if I have a larger quantity.

I don't mind if someone helps themselves. That is what they are for. Obviously, I am not getting rich if I am giving the stuff away for free or for a few dollars.

If you happen to make a purchase of something else too, that is great, and it is appreciated.

In doing this though, I sometimes attract collectors who are only looking for free stuff.

For example, if you only stop to ask, "Do you have any free mounts?" and I say, "no," and you move on without even looking at anything else that I have, then you are only interested in the free material. I am a dealer, and I need to make a profit. I do not need to make a profit on every item though.

I would rather give free things away to someone who makes a purchase or at least takes a little bit of time to look at what I have.

I have two collectors (and I will not mention the shows), who only stop by my table to inquire about the free items. I simply say that I do not have any this time, and they move on. After they leave, then I get out the free stuff for someone else. I like to spread the material around and give someone else a chance, especially if they make a small purchase from me or take time to look at what I have.

I know that I am not the only dealer who does this. Some do it to get collectors to come to their table and look around. We appreciate any sales! We are not interested in continually feeding free and low-cost material to the same person every time without any sales.

Strike while the iron is hot

Talk to any collector who has been at the hobby a long time. What stories are in front of their mind? Here is a hint: It will not be stories about the best items in their collections. It will be stories about the material that got away. They were outbid at auction. They did not have the funds when the item came on the market. And so forth.

Common and inexpensive stamps will always be that way. Sure, price corrections are sometimes made. Catalog editors determine that the $1 item today is worth $10 because the supply is smaller than thought. It happens. Those stamps will almost always be available though, without much effort.

The $100 and $1000 items do not come along very often. Sometimes, it can be years before a copy hits the market again. Usually, it is when an older collector passes away or stops collecting. Depending on who buys it, it may be another 20+ years before it is on the market again.

Dealers actively seek the best and more valuable material. It is what is on everyone's want list. Depending on the circumstances, sometimes you are going to have to pay above catalog value to secure a particular item.

Do not spend all your money on the inexpensive material. Buy it a little at a time. It will always be there.

Set aside a sum of money (out of sight, out of mind) as a reserve for when scarce and/or valuable material comes on the market that you want. When it hits the market, you are prepared to strike and get a needed item that you want for your collection.

For example, suppose the very rare material is beyond your means. However, you would like to get everything that catalogs $100 or less in your collection. Suppose the area you collect, there is $3000 of material that catalogs $25-$100.

Start with, say, a reserve of $300. Add $20 per month to keep growing your reserve. When an item hits the market, now you have the money to try and secure it. Get that $50 or $75 item while it is hot. Those $1 and less copies can wait a little longer. They are not going away.

At $20/month, in 11 years you should have set aside enough money to buy most of the material in your budget. Depending on how much you set aside per month, that accelerates or slows down your ability to buy the scarce material. If you slow down too much though, you will likely miss some opportunities.

Dealers make money by moving material and not sitting on it. Dealers can be a little flexible. They cannot hold material indefinitely for you to come up with the purchase price. If you do not have the funds for a particular item, someone else will. This will be a missed opportunity that you will be talking about to others someday!

Set some money aside to strike while the iron is hot. You will be glad you did. Good luck!

As always, order early on the specials. Many of them are one-of-a-kind. The specials tend to move very quickly.

Special #1 Scott #1615Cf imperf line and gap strip of 6 with Brownsville, IN Bureau precancel. This is the scarcest precancel on this major error. This strip of 6 has both the joint line pair and the gap pair in the precancel bars. Rare and possibly unique in this combination. $3500

Special #2 Group of 50 retired APS circuit books containing different worldwide countries. These came from the estate of a deceased collector. I thought his prices were out of line which is why these books are still mostly filled. People selected a few stamps from these books, but not many. These were returned to him before he died. The best book was a group of mostly early Switzerland. His price was $400. My price is $100. There is early Belgium, Denmark, Austria, Iceland, British Commonwealth and South America books too. $600 for the group

Special #3 Group of 8 Berlin booklets. Scott #9N552A (2 copies), #9N391c (2), #9N317a (3), #9N391D (1), and one DDR #R49849. Cat value is $115. $45

Special #4 Ireland, group of mostly NH and a few LH with some used issues too. Most are early issues. $570 cat value. Light duplication. $145

Special #5 Austria group of mint and used issues. Light duplication. Mostly early material. $163 cat value. $75

Special #6 Great Britain Group of 22 modern booklets. Most are Machins. Different booklet covers. Cat value $75. $30

Special #7 Switzerland. Group of mint and used issues. Mostly early issues and semi-postals. Light duplication. $450 cat value. $195

Special #8 Priority Mail size box with wholesale selection of primarily mint US. Most of the material is between Scott #500 and #800. I saw 3 MNH copies of #232. Set of NH Prexy plate blocks. Parks, Farley's, Washington Bicents, 2 cent reds. Partial panes of #654, 702, and 703. There is duplication, but not heavy. Most are mint singles or coil pairs. There are some plate blocks, mostly in the Scott #700s era. Good lot for someone on eBay. $400

Special #9 Australian States collection on homemade pages. I counted $7150 cat value in material mostly $20 and above. Total catalog value is in the range of $8000. Most of the material is used. There are a few mint copies. No space fillers, but expect small faults on some of the material (missing perfs, moderate cancels, etc.). Centering is about AVE to Fine. The best items were Victoria #3 ($450) and South Australia #1 ($500). Plenty of other $50, $100, and $200 singles and sets. Not complete and it is missing the most valuable material. Stamps per state are: New South Wales (30), Queensland (44), Tasmania (55), South Australia (52), Victoria (63), and Western Australia (41). There are a few uncounted stamped envelopes too (mostly mint). Given condition and centering, this is a major head start on collecting Australian States for $2500

Special #10 Ascension collection. Mostly mint, hinged copies (few used) on quadrilled pages. There are 110 stamps up to about 1970. Only a few copies are missing. There is $1000 cat value of better material, but that includes a few (about $200) hinged stamps that should be NH. Great start to the early issues of this country for $425

Special #11 Aden collection. Mostly mint and a few used issues on quadrilled pages. The catalog value of the better material is over $600. However, all of the mint stamps are hinged, and the catalog values are for NH. There are about 50 stamps from India prior to 1937 that have postmarks from Aden. Most of the stamps from Aden and its states are present. There are a few missing items. $100

Discount postage. Available for 80% of face value. Indicate the face value of postage you want on the order form. No other discounts apply.

Discount postage. Glassine with 14 combinations of 73¢ stamps. No more than 4 stamps per combination. Face value is $10.08 for $6.55 which is 65% of face. No other discounts apply. In premade combinations, using them for postage is easy!

Post-1940 Mint Never Hinged Issues and Plate Blocks

Due to low demand, used stamps are not listed here. If you need used stamps between Scott #772 and #2544A, let me know and I'll send you a separate listing. Prices are also available on my website. Sorry, I don't have used copies past Scott #2544A.

Material in this section are all MNH and at least F-VF centering. Mint is for the single/block/strip. Plate Block is the price for the plate block, where applicable. Note: the "PN" designation is for full panes. Usually for issues where the margins contain additional/special printing. On some self-adhesive issues (mainly booklet or coil stamps) where there are no die cuts in the backing paper to separate them, mint singles of those stamps may NOT appear on original backing paper.

Thank you

This price list is going out a little later than normal due to my pressures are work.

I am working on a very nice collection of US stamps. Some of the early material is in this price list. I have more to come. I have not tackled the Washington-Franklin heads yet. They are coming. My fall price list will have more treasures from this collection. It is a high quality and very complete collection of US material. It is one of the better collections that I have handled in years.

Despite being a little incomplete, I decided to get this price list out now rather than wait for the time to do more specials. If I can address my situation at work and find a solution, my dilemma with the lack of time should resolve itself.

Thank you for your time and continued business. It is greatly appreciated! And remember to enjoy stamp collecting. This is a hobby that is meant to be fun. I hope you are having a blast!
